1. Course Description

This program offers each student the first opportunity to have practical experiences of working as a clinical psychologist at either or more of facilities in welfare, education, juvenile training/correction, and industry fields. Practicum students are expected to gain the knowledge about the basics of psychological services, develop the clinical skills required, and learn from the professional conferences in/between psychologists and others, through the internship training, under the supervision by both of a staff member of each facility and a faculty.
