

地域政策論 II

Syllabus Number

POS-202

Compulsory Elective
2 credit

1. Course Description

In this course, lectures will be given on regional policies by local governments.

So as to deepen the understanding of the current situation and issues of regional policies by local governments, we will learn the process of formulating and implementing policies by local governments such as planning, budgeting, administrative evaluation, relations with residents, role of local assemblies. In addition, lectures will be given on policy implementation by bylaws, creating advanced policies, capacity building for policy making, and so on.

※This course will be taught in Japanese.