

Tax Law B

Syllabus Number PUL-310
Elective 2 credit
KAMIJO, Katsuhiko

1. Course Description

No one can escape from tax as long as you are in your community.

The tax of modern society is collected by money, not by service, and the amount is determined by law. You learn the foundation of the law that decides the tax liability and you can discuss it with classmate students as necessary.

Tax law is deeply involved with subjects in other fields such as constitution, civil law, corporate law, accounting, etc. By learning the tax law, we can integrate these knowledge and make it truly useful in the actual world.
