

Financial Management I

Syllabus Number

MAN-321

Elective

2 credit

NAGAI, Kiyohiko

1. Course Description

In this course, we focus on “money,” which, among other management resources, can be said to be the “blood” of a company, and we will examine the flow of “money.”

In spring, we comprehensively learn several important concepts and models that make up modern financial theory. In addition, we will learn practically about the importance of cash flow analysis in order to evaluate correctly the current state and possibilities of companies.