1. Course Description

In this seminar we will address issues relating to Labor & Employment Law. Japanese society currently has myriad workplace problems. Assuming you were in a situation described in pre-distributed papers, we will discuss how to remedy / alleviate problems in such pertinent situations.

In this seminar, a reporter is required to deliver a presentation in which s/he shows their results of researching related cases and theories, once or twice per term. After listening to the presentation, participants are divided into proponents and opponents, and are required to make a case a.l.a their opinion(s).
