

Reading in English I

Syllabus Number

PSY-203

Elective

2 credit

IJJIMA, Yuudai

1. Course Description

The most of literatures in psychology has been written in English. Therefore, if you do not read literatures written in English, you cannot get important knowledge. And it can make your research to reduce scientific validity. The aim of this lecture is to lower resistance for English literatures by reading abstracts of research articles. Research articles are chosen from cognitive, social, and clinical psychology according to needs from students.