

国際経済入門Ⅰ

Syllabus Number

ECP-103

Compulsory Elective
2 credit

NAKANISHI, Toshihiro

1. Course Description

In this course, participants will study basic economic issues which main states and areas of the world face from multiple dimensions and it helps participants understand the background of the change in the global business. The world economy is influenced by the trend of U.S. interest rates, pace for the economic growth of China, oil price and the international trade frictions. Participants of this course will learn how the economy is influenced by politics, social and military issue as well.