

心身医学特論

Elective 2 credit
IKEDA, Masatoshi

1. Course Description

Psychosomatic medicine is one of the clinical medicine to have the both sides of natural science and the humanities or social science.

The student who is going to become clinical psychologist has to learn this field more profoundly.

This lecture consists of the following contents.

What is the concept of mind-body correlation?

What is psychosomatic diseases?

What kind of meaning is it to be cured?

How is the correlation of the psychosomatic medicine with the brain science, psychiatry or internal medicine?