

Introduction to Lifelong Learning I

Syllabus Number

EDU-121

Elective

2 credit

TANMA, Yasuhito

1. Course Description

In this course, in light of the essence of lifelong learning and community and adult education, you will learn about the role of learning in engaging with the society. In addition to individual's hobbies and cultural accomplishments, you will learn about the practical application of a wide range of learning including region, welfare, labor, and child-rearing. On the basis of history, theory, policy, and legislation of lifelong learning and community and adult education, you will have the opportunity of attending lectures about the role of education that supports learning. In this course, we will discuss about the significance of lifelong learning, and community and adult education in the modern society where there are life issues and regional issues that cannot be solved with individual's self-reliant efforts only.