

Sports Sociology II

Syllabus Number

SPS-210

Elective

2 credit

TANIZAKI, Atsuhiko

1. Course Description

The course aims at giving an overall perspective of modern sports. Sports are integrally related to the political and social structures dominant at the time. Often sports reflect divisions of power, wealth and class. The course is also designed to assist students in understanding the role of sports in this competitive world and highlights the character of various activities of sports organizations.