

Distribution System I

Syllabus Number

CME-303

Elective

2 credit

NISHIKAWA, Minami

1. Course Description

Distribution is an economic unit that links production and consumption, and distribution system refers to the structure of this product distribution. In this class, students will systematically learn the basic concepts and theory of distribution systems using examples.