

Research in the Curriculum for Children with Intellectual Disabilities Syllabus Number SNE-204
KANDA, Motoshi Elective 2 credit

1. Course Description

In this class we will gain a clear understanding of the curriculum in primary school as well as the characteristics of the curriculum in special needs schools. In special needs schools (for intellectual disabilities) methods of teaching are being developed which accommodate the educational needs and disability of each individual student. In addition, we will look at primary and junior high schools where this kind of education is also being developed in special needs classes.
