1. Course Description

In this course, we learn and discuss about the regional planning, especially about the neighboring region which is familiar to ourselves, the university students.

At first, we search for the backgrounds of the regional planning, as well as the community and the regional environment, and so on. Then we learn about the "Area Management", the methods and the theories of which are shown by the Ministry of Land, Infrastructure, Transport and Tourism recently, and about the regional contribution by the university students.
