

Introduction to Psychopharmacology II

Syllabus Number

NGN-202

Elective

2 credit

TAKADA, Koji

1. Course Description

Behavioral pharmacology (psychopharmacology) is the study of how drugs affect animal behavior using experimental psychological methods. This course deals with neural mechanism and drug treatment of psychological disorders including schizophrenia, depression and anxiety disorders. It also introduces studies of learning and memory using Behavioral pharmacology technique.