1. Course Description

Students make groups of 3 /4 according to the theme of their own interest and work together through a year. Juvenile deviation, hikikomori and various problems in family setting are catchy topics for pop-psychology, but deeply intertwined and complexed with various factors. Before organizing the research plan, careful search for preceded studies is necessary. During the spring semester, it is desirable that the theme is set and the measure of the study is decided through sufficient discussion in a group.
