

Public Policy I

Syllabus Number

POS-101

Compulsory 2
credit

1. Course Description

In this course, we will learn about basic concepts and theories on public policy, and obtain basic knowledge on the significance and formulation (design) of public policy.

After learning about the public policy studies, lectures will be given on the significance of public policy, the structures of public policies, and the types of public policies.

This course also includes lectures on the formulation of public policy such as setting policy issues, analyzing problem structures, and means to achieve policy purposes.

※This course will be taught in Japanese.