応用演習 II Syllabus Number SEM-302 Elective 2 credit

UCHIYAMA, Yumiko

1. Course Description

This subject introduces students to learn research method through developing and applying theories which have been developed in health sociology. Students will create a hypothesis, investigate them, present those results and discuss them with other students. Students required to participate a field study.