

Practical on Contents Producing

Syllabus Number

SOC-208

Elective

2 credit

FUJITA, Yoshikatsu

1. Course Description

This course aims to produce radio contents over the knowledge and skills earned in the spring semester.

We will mainly employ consumer appliances because students can make full use of acquired skills in various company or organization they will enter upon graduation, to take part of any advertising activities. Contents production operations are pursued by forming teams, so team management is also regarded as important experiences students have to practice in the class.