

Understanding Others and Psychology of Human Relations

Syllabus Number

SOP-201

Compulsory Elective
2 credit

TAKIGIKU, Kazuyoshi

1. Course Description

In this class we will examine the following: 1. How we perceive ourselves and how we express our "self"; 2. How people perceive other individuals, groups and society, in other words, social cognition; 3. Human interaction, or people's relations with others and how they work together. Introducing as many real-world examples as possible, students will be given the opportunity in class to carry out social psychology experiments, tests and surveys by themselves.