精神医学

Syllabus Number PSS-201

Elective 2 credit

MIYAGAWA, Muneyuki

1. Course Description

The number of people having problems in the field of psychiatry is not small. If you look at carefully, you will notice that it is a familiar presence. Speaking of people having a mental problem or a personality problem may be easier to understand. In the lecture, various disorders and conditions subject to psychiatry will be introduced. Video materials and some movies will be used for your better understanding of the symptoms of the patient. Understanding of people who needs psychiatric care will help you to respond to their needs more appropriately in the school or in the workplace and to live with them in the society.