

Clinical Assessment I

Syllabus Number	CLI-302
Elective	2 credit
INAGAKI, Ayako

1. Course Description

On psychological practice, the following matters are required. 1) Assessment of the problem which clients have or bring, 2) providing a specific psychological approach and/ or intervention based on the assessment, 3) creating and reporting a clear record on the clinical practice.

The subjects of this course are 1) the idea and ethics of psychological assessment, 2) the view and expansion of psychological assessment, 3) the method of observation, interview and test as psychological assessment, 4) how to report an clear record. Students which take this course have to participant some activity works and role play, and submit reaction papers on which they express one's inner experience and reflection.