

Fire Prevention Administration I

Law and

Syllabus Number

LAW-201

Elective

2 credit

UMEHARA, Tadashi

1. Course Description

Fire prevention to protect lives and property of citizens from fires, is one of the important duties of a fire service.

This course aims to study about the basic knowledge of fire prevention administration (fire inspection, fire defense equipment regulation administration and hazardous materials regulation administration).

In addition, this course is very useful for those who take the examination for fire prevention technicians.