

Clinical Assessment of the Criminal

Syllabus Number

SOP-204

Elective

2 credit

INOUE, Yasuo

1. Course Description

In "Correctional Psychology I", an overview lecture was given on how crime and delinquency are occurring, how to understand those who commit crimes and delinquency.

"Correctional Psychology II" will cover the mechanisms and characteristics of various crimes and how to deal with them.

Speaking of crimes, there are various things such as theft, murder, sex crimes, and drug crimes, and each has its own characteristics. For example, if we take only the theft action, it is caused for various reasons. Therefore, there are various answers to the question of how to prevent the thief from re-offending.

I will cover a wide range of concrete crimes, so I hope that you will be aware of the diversity of crimes.