

Extracurricular Activities in Junior and Senior High Schools

Syllabus Number

ESS-302

Elective

2 credit

SHINJO, Keiko

1. Course Description

Objectives of the Period for Integrated Studies are to enable junior and senior high students to think in their own way about life through cross-synthetic studies and inquiry studies, while fostering the qualities and abilities needed to find their own tasks, to make proactive decisions and to solve problems better. Special activities are also important learning for junior and senior high students to develop their own personalities and social skills through the activities of the classroom, student's association, and school events.

In this course, you will learn the objective, the basic theory, the practical teaching methods and the evaluation.