

Topics in Archaeology 1C- I

Syllabus Number

ARC-201

Compulsory Elective
2 credit

ABE, Asaei

1. Course Description

The maintenance and creation of modern human society is through biological and cultural reproduction. Cultural reproduction is achieved through learning and education, and the accumulation of knowledge and technology thereby creates new cultures and technologies. These are evolutionary products since human appearance. This year, we will explore the learning environment of Homo sapiens children compared to their predecessors. In the spring, an overview of human evolution and the biological and cultural characteristics of sapiens will be considered.