1. Course Description

The essence of intellectual property, such as inventions and copyrighted works, is valuable information goods. The ability to interpret this information accurately has become essential in social activities.

In this lesson, the goal is for students to acquire the basic ability to utilize this information property. Specifically, it deals with music copyright database search and analysis, trademark database search and analysis, design database search and analysis, patent database search and analysis, and proposal of a rudimentary intellectual property strategy integrating these.
