

Social Media

Syllabus Number

SOC-235

Elective

2 credit

FUJITA, Yoshikatsu

1. Course Description

Social network services have become prevalent all over the world, not only for sharing information among friends, but for promoting newly developed services and products as powerful marketing tools. This class will look into characteristics of social network, such as how word of mouth propagation over the social media takes place by applying text mining tools.