Seminar : Sociology II

FUJITA, Yoshikatsu

1. Course Description

This course aims to study how to build and verify hypothesis for social science tasks through Information Technology. To begin with, students are expected to get in touch with some data science analysis tools and follow the preceding research by building their own models. After satisfactory devotion for such survey studies, students are going to sail on the sea of their own research.