1. Course Description

At first, in this lecture, we read documents about Public Finance by turns. And, based on that, we will make discussions by students gathering information, preparing resume, and making presentation to each other. The purpose of this lecture is to maximize analytical ability to solve today's various fiscal problems through these processes, and to obtain ability to make presentation in the work life after completing this course. This lecture is the first-term seminar to consider the modern society from the viewpoint of Public Finance.
