

International Chinese	Communication 2-2:	Syllabus Number	FLE-118
	雷 叢晶	Elective	2 credit

1. Course Description

Following the completion of an elementary level of study of basic grammar, we'll establish which grammar items are difficult. While practicing these difficult grammatical items, we'll look at new grammatical items, but without overdoing doing it. We'll dedicate our effort to accuracy and balancing the following items: 1) practicing natural, everyday conversation, 2) appropriate expressions and 3) fluent conversation. Our focus will be to raise the level of Chinese language by integrating the following: [listening, speaking, reading, and writing].

Fundamentally, we'll apply each grammatical topic to the appropriate conversation setting, and once the meaning of each grammatical item is understood we'll see if we can understand a document for training use.

Lastly, the lesson will progress by repeatedly practicing oral communication, and establishing the format for each grammatical item.