

IT Management in Currnet Society 1

Syllabus Number

SOC-103

[IV]

Elective 2

credit

IKE, Shuichirou

1. Course Description

The rapid spread of Internet is greatly changing industry and society. The Internet became the infrastructure that was indispensable for us. The characteristic of this network is the opening characteristics that various people of many countries can interchange information. However, this opening characteristics are opened up to malicious persons at the same time. You must acquire techniques protecting yourself against the malicious since you live in Internet. In addition, we must acquire an information ethic on using a network paying serious attention to protection of copyright.