1. Course Description

Art Education provides an "environment" that is important for children's lives.

Experience of expression activities through "shape, color and image" and "texture of objects" enhances children's sensitivity and cultivates creativity.

However, if the teacher is not good at modeling, the child's independence cannot be nurtured. So, first of all, it is important that the teacher himself can enjoy art.

In class, students acquire knowledge and skills such as activities and educational environments suitable for children's development.
