

Introduction to the Study of Education I

Syllabus Number

EDU-101
Compulsory 2
credit

1. Course Description

This course will help you to understand education in the broader sense. The science and art of education—or 'pedagogy', as it has traditionally been called—cover and examine various forms of education in human society, ranging from child care and school education to lifelong learning. To fully explore this fertile field of research, a variety of academic staff in the Faculty of Education take turn lecturing throughout the semester. Students are hoped to find their own research interest through this programme.