

アニメーション制作の基礎 I

Syllabus Number

ARL-211

Elective

2 credit

YASUMURA, Ryo

1. Course Description

The art of animation is very simple in principle. You just make still objects or images look moving. Artists are free to choose from thousands of methods known to us or invent new ones. The challenges of the past creators include the materials used for animation creation and the ways to achieve the moving look using those materials. To understand animation, it is useful to focus on the materials and the creators who use them.