1. Course Description

This lecture follows the Special Topics in Clinical Psychology (I), where we will discuss issues that were not covered in (I). First, psychological problems in the life cycle and their support will be discussed. Next, we will discuss the professionalism of clinical psychologists, and take up essential attitudes, growth, and supervision as professionals, so that you could have an outlook on the professionalism that we should acquire as clinical psychologists and the path to it. Furthermore, cooperation with other professions and team approach will be discussed, aiming to acquire the knowledge necessary for clinical psychologists.
