

Education and the Business World

Syllabus Number

CAE-301

Elective

2 credit

IGOU, Yoshinobu

1. Course Description

This course will aim to explore the educational and sociological aspects of corporate activities in terms of contributing to the development of personnel resources. Corporate activities and human resources development studies could have achieved the analysis of the movement that replaces full-time employees with part-time and temporary workers with the introduction of different perspective based on the case studies. This course will revisit the perception that vocational career development is individual issues, contrasting the employment system of Japan with other countries.