

Introduction to Economic Data

Syllabus Number

ECS-101

Compulsory Elective
2 credit

KIKUCHI, Tadashi

1. Course Description

We are leading our lives in the ultra-connected world. This is the world where we can access very fast and easily take advantage much information through internet surfing. Regarding with “economic data,” it is important to grab the exact meaning what the data shows us our daily economic activities. For this purpose, in this course, we will learn fundamental information and methodology on basic data analysis, as well as know-how to deepen our understanding our economic affairs. After you learn this course, I believe that you can make your knowledge on Japanese economic activities much rich. Let’s study together and exchange our opinions on Japanese economy at our class!