

事例検討基礎実習Ⅰ

Elective 1 credit

KASAI, Satsuki

1. Course Description

In this course, students learn how to assess cases and conduct interviews from the reported cases by attending case study sessions as beginners. They also learn approaches to cases and issues from various perspectives through discussions with participants including professionals. Furthermore, as preparation for the first stage of practical training in psychotherapy, students will engage in discussions using textbooks including those on child and adolescent psychology, reflections after case study sessions, and practice on professional writings.
