

經济学演習 II

Compulsory 2
credit

GUO, Sizhi

1. Course Description

At the graduate level, it is important to learn the theory and knowledge on the international economy and China / emerging economies economy, and at the same time to develop problem finding, survey / analysis and research capability accurately using theory and knowledge. In the latter term, we will analyze and study the international economy including China and other emerging economies, from both sides of macro and micro, and discuss with students.