

Hygiene and Public Health

Syllabus Number HPH-201
Elective 2 credit
MIYAGAWA, Muneyuki

1. Course Description

Hygiene/public health is the core discipline in the field of social medicine, i.e. medical science that targets various groups of humans in the society. The aim of this class is to present basic knowledge on the health problem of humans at each life stage from birth to death, and on the administrative framework for preventing diseases and improving health conditions of humans in the society encompassing local community, workplace, and school.