

Life-span Developmental Psychology I

Syllabus Number

DEP-301

Elective

2 credit

KIHARA, Kumiko

1. Course Description

This course aims to inspire and enable students to learn about the fundamental themes of the child developmental psychology. Some issues are considered: observational methods, lifespan development, interpersonal relations, play, school adaptation, children with special educational needs and so on. Students are expected to participate actively and acquire a wider range of basic knowledge on child developmental psychology field.