

Infant Health I

Syllabus Number

PED-301

Elective

2 credit

OGAWA, Yoshiko

1. Course Description

Infant health refers to all activities performed to protect and improve the health of children. Children are not miniature adults, but are at high risk of illness and accidents because they are immature both physically and mentally. Therefore, adults and society have to protect children from the danger of illness and accidents and to create an environment that promotes healthy physical and mental growth. In this lecture, you will learn the knowledge necessary to support the healthy growth of children's body and mind.