1. Course Description

Based on our experience in personnel and labor management, human resource development, and recruitment work at a company, we will focus on the following points.

- We will share the "basic knowledge and information" necessary for course design, and learn the ability to decide one's own course based on each person's "self-analysis".
- Learn how to design a "career design" that allows you to imagine your own future.
- Learn "presentation ability" to accurately convey your thoughts on a given theme.
