

総合経営 I

Syllabus Number

MAN-403

Compulsory Elective
2 credit

YOSHIMURA, Kohei

1. Course Description

The purpose of this lecture is to acquire the ability to consider economic events that occur in industry on the stage of companies. In addition, in this lecture, we will review the knowledge of economics that we learned by the third year in "Comprehensive Management I", and in "Comprehensive Management II", we will understand the economic mechanism and concepts surrounding companies, focusing on concrete cases. By deepening, we aim to acquire useful knowledge in "vocational choice" in job hunting.

In addition, in this lecture, we will review the knowledge of economics that we learned by the third year in "Comprehensive Management I", and in "Comprehensive Management II", the economy surrounding companies, focusing on specific cases.

The goal of this lecture is to acquire the ability to consider economic events that occur in industry on the stage of companies.

In addition, in this lecture, we will review the knowledge of economics that we learned by the third year in "Comprehensive Management I", and in "Comprehensive Management II", the economy surrounding companies, focusing on specific cases.

The goal of this lecture is to acquire the ability to consider economic events that occur in industry on the stage of companies. In addition, in this lecture, we will review the knowledge of economics that we learned by the third year in "Comprehensive Management I", and in "Comprehensive Management II", the economy surrounding companies, focusing on specific cases. The goal is to acquire useful knowledge in "job selection" during job hunting by deepening the understanding of the mechanism and concept of.