1. Course Description

In this class, we will take a fresh look at various events in society and ask ourselves "Is this really so?," based on our daily lives and from various fields. We will use sociological theories to gain a multifaceted view of society. We will then consider the correlation between society and ourselves through a back-and-forth between the social field and theory. In Sociology II, we will consider the themes of I, food, work, relationships, NPO, sex, poverty, and state.
