

Basic Research in Psychology II

Syllabus Number

SEM-202

Compulsory 2
credit

SHIKISHIMA, Chizuru

1. Course Description

Students will read and discuss works that take a scientific view of human personality and examine it based on empirical data obtained from psychological surveys. Through careful reading of the textbook and related literature, students are expected to master how to read and write psychological papers, and to link this to their own research in the third year. Following the "Basic Research in Psychology I," students are expected to deepen their insight into various human personalities while maintaining an awareness of the issues involved.