

Energy Economy I

Syllabus Number	ECP-225
Elective	2 credit
NAKANISHI, Toshihiro

1. Course Description

This course aims at gaining the knowledge about energy from the economic viewpoint. Students study about various energy resources like petroleum, natural gas, renewable energy including solar, wind and others through concrete examples. By examining those case studies, students learn mechanism of macro economy and international markets influenced by energy factors.