

日本古文書学演習

FUKAYA, Koji Elective 2 credit

1. Course Description

This class, the seminar of Japanese old documents study, is for the master course students in their graduate school. So the students participate in will be few members. The graduate students must take part in the careful reading of old documents or manuscripts and so on written in Japanese ancient and medieval times, and have the clearly explaining about its contents. After that, the discussion will be held by the students and the lecturer. The documents read in this class will be both of the printing type and the handwriting type.