1. Course Description

In order to provide better learning for children, teachers must constantly develop their own ability as professionals. Teacher's ability is that of giving better lesson first of all. In order to develop ability of lesson, the shortest and most effective way is studying one's own lessons (or others' lessons) and finding ways to improvement. However, if lesson study isn't conducted in an appropriate manner, it comes to ineffective one and become difficult to lead to improvement.

In this lecture, we aim to (1) rewrite the view of lesson study that "watch and comment" through learning prominent methods of it and (2) acquire basic competence to conduct lesson study actually through examining actual study cases from a standpoint of "lesson as an interaction."
