1. Course Description

Principles of education are knowledges which “should” be known to become a teacher. Not only that, beyond the obligation, but are powerfully useful knowledges when you will have become a teacher.

“Principles” of education are various kinds of things which educational activities bear on. And learning the various principles give us competence of reflection to detect tasks and find solutions of current education, standing away from common sense which we are jailed.

In this lecture, to acquire the competence of reflection, we are going to learn institutional basis, historical background, international comparison, social functions, and structures of communication about education.
